

Branch Alliance
for Educator Diversity

Dr. William Anderson

A Colorado native that attended Metropolitan State University for his Bachelor's degree, the University of Phoenix for his Master's degree in education, and his doctorate is from University of Colorado at Denver. He is currently the Director of the Teacher Education Program, and an Assistant Clinical Professor at the University of Denver. He was a member of the Bill and Melinda Gates Foundation's Teacher Advisory Council from 2014-2016, and was a member of the National Geographic Teacher Advisory Council 2019-2021. He also is the founder of Love 1st Education Consultation LLC. William is a father, husband, dream chaser, reader, runner, lover of history, music, and junk food. A quote that sums up his teaching philosophy is, "Of all of our studies, history is best qualified for our research" Malcolm X.