

Reflection Activity: Silent Walk

Goal: To explore our understanding of the changing landscape of education and consider future possibilities for learning.

- Looking back over your lifetime, what is the biggest way schools and/or learning have changed, and how do you think these changes are preparing us for the future?
- Imagine you're in a classroom in 2054—what's one thing about education in 2024 that future generations might find strange or outdated?
- Reflect on the “3 R's” of education: will they remain the same in 2054, or will they need to change? If so, what new “R's” would you propose?
- If you could change one rule or tradition in education today to better prepare students for the future, what would it be?
